Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

11. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

12. Claims 63 and 73 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 63, the phrase "having a combination of plural coding models selectable from claims 38, 39, 40, and 47 recited in lines 1-2. This renders claim vague and indeterminate in scope. Likewise, claim 73 is considered vague and indeterminate in scope.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

13. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Art Unit: 2621

14. Claims 38-42, 44-46, 47-48, 53, 74-82, 84, and 87 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chui et al. (US Patent No. 6,229,926).

Regarding claim 38, Chui teaches an image coding device (i.e., the data processing circuitry 106 comprising a machine 200 for compressing as shown in figure 1 and mentioned in col.. 6 lines 17-19) comprising:

a tile decomposition portion...each of the tiles (see figure 2);

a wavelet coding portion..each of the tiles (i.e., the machine 200 employing a wavelet transforms according to figure 1, col. 6 lines 17-19 and col. 5 lines 13-15 and 23-26 functions as the so called “wavelet coding portion”);

a management information generating portion...subband-by-subband basis (see figure 3A and col. 5 lines 34-46. Note that the header data 160 refers to management information and it is generated by the machine 200. Thus, the machine 200 functions as the so called “management information generating portion”); and a coded data integrating portion...each of the subbands (i.e., the machine 200 generates encoded data 162 (col. 5 line 48) that is attached to header 160 (col. 5 lines 34-46 and figure 3A). Thus, machine 200 functions as the so called “coded data integrating portion”).

Chui further teaches information on a size of coded information of each tile (see col. 5 lines 39-49) as required by claim 39; start code indicating a top element position of coded information of each of the tiles to identify location of the coded information for each tiles in the bit stream (see item 162-1 shown in figure 3A) as required by claim 40; and ID information showing a location of each of the tiles on the original image as the management information (see item 162-1 shown in figure 3A and further detailed in figure 3B) as required by claim 41.

The advanced statement as applied to claim 38 above are incorporated herein. Regarding claim 44, Chui further teaches an adjacent pixel adding portion (see figure 2); and wavelet coding portion for extrapolating (note that Chui does teach wavelet coding portion as pointed in claim 38 above, but fails to mention extrapolating by using wavelet coding portion because it is inherently included in the wavelet coding technique).

Regarding claim 45, this claim is also rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claim 41 above.

The advanced statement as applied to claim 38 above are incorporated herein. Chui further teaches a tile composing portion for reconstructing (see machine 202 for decompressing shown in figure 1) as required by claim 47; wherein the wavelet coding portion is provided with a memory (see “stored encoded tiles as image filed” shown at 256 in figure 6; working memory 104 in figure 1) as required by claim 48; filters for subband decomposition (see horizontal and vertical filters mentioned in col. 10 lines 14-15) as required by claims 53.

The advanced statement as applied to claim 38 above are incorporated herein. Chui further teaches decoding device (see machine 200 for decompressing encoded data as shown in figure 1) as required by claim 74.

Regarding claims 75-77, these claims are also rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claims 39-41 above.

Regarding claims 78-79, and 81, these claims are also rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claim 74 above.

Art Unit: 2621

Regarding claim 80, this claim is also rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claims 41 and 44 above.

Regarding claim 82, Chui further teaches wherein the wavelet decoding portion is provided with a memory (see working memory 104 in figure 1).

Regarding claim 84, these claims are also rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claim 53 above.

Allowable Subject Matter

15. Claim 46 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The cited prior art fails to teach or suggest the features as recited in claim 46.
